INTRODUCTION

The Mennonite Year Book and Directory is designed to give the official statistics of the church for the past year. It contains a list of twenty-three conferences, in which are found the name and location, the number of members and time of services for each congregation, and the bishops, ministers, and deacons serving at each place. The total membership of each conference is given at the top of each conference table. The total membership of our branch of the Mennonite Church for this year is found at the head of the Ministers' list on page 77. The total this year of 44,945 shows a substantial growth. Part of the increase over last year is due to more complete returns from some sections that had not reported for some time. However making due allowances for increases that are the result of better returns to the statistician, we are still assured of a healthy growth. This is encouraging and helps to spur us on to do greater things in the coming years, if the Lord tarries. It is not so many years since we were accustomed to refer to the Mennonite Church as having a membership of approximately 35,000. It is worthy of note that we have now nearly reached the 45,000 mark.

Following the detailed conference reports we have the personnel of the General Mission Board and then a list of twenty-one missions and nine charitable institutions that are supported by the General Board or some of the cooperating local boards. Then follows a list of the local mission boards and their officers, the Board of Education, the three colleges supported by our church, with their officers and faculties, the Publication Board, and the officers and workers of the Mennonite Publishing House. Other committees and boards are also listed. Following this we have a statistical report of the city missions and charitable institutions under the direct control of the General Mission Board. Finally we have the Directory of Bishops, Ministers, and Deacons of practically every branch of Mennonites in the United States and Canada. All of this matter has been revised and brought up-to-date as nearly as possible. Considerable correspondence was necessary in order to do this, and we want to thank all who have helped in furnishing the facts and figures. Since most of our material was received from secretaries of conferences and other authoritative sources we can claim accurate information in the main. However, there are a few conferences, not in our branch of the church, in which the information was not as complete as we would have wished. We are also sorry to state that no returns on the exact membership of our foreign missions were received this year. Hence the figures given may be considered as only aproximately correct.

The general reading matter deals mostly with some of the most important activities of the church during the past year. A number of new churches were built. Some of these are described in detail in special articles. This, too, is an indication of substantial growth. We praise the Lord for His help and guidance during the year, for the souls that have been won for the Kingdom, for the faithful laborers that are carrying on often difficult and discouraging, and the work under conditions that are for the love of Christ that constrains us to labor on through storm and sunshine, through prosperity and adversity, having as our goal "the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

OUTSTANDING EVENTS IN OUR HOME AND FOREIGN MISSION WORK DURING 1926

By V. E. Reiff

On Jan. 8, 1926, the Executive Committee and Field Worker of the General Mission Board held their first meeting at Elkhart, Indiana. A full committee was reported present, consisting of the following: D. D. Miller, president; D. G. Lapp, vice-president; S. C. Yoder, general secretary; V. E. Reiff, general treasurer; H. R. Schertz, and S. E. Allgyer.

During the year the Executive Committee met to transact business on the following dates: Jan. 8, Feb. 17, 18, April 7, May 7, June 11, July 10, Aug. 6, Aug. 31, Sept. 19, Oct. 6, and Nov. 23. The problems that are presented to your Mission Board Executive Committee are not easy to solve and it is only through the guidance of the Holy Spirit and in answer to prayer that we are able to record the mission activities for the year 1926. May the Lord be praised for what has been accomplished and may we earnestly pray that even more may be accomplished during the year 1927 by our own beloved Church. We have a message and a great commission. Will the Lord find us faithful?

Mission Endowment and Annuities

While it is the purpose of the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities to systematize and extend the work of evangelization, to establish and support home and foreign missions, to care and provide for orphans and the aged; it is also the purpose of this corporation to receive and hold all donations and bequests, and property, and funds from other sources and manage, rent, lease, improve, sell or otherwise dispose of all real estate and personal property that may come into the possession of said institution from any source, and to manage, control, loan, and invest all the funds of said institution. It is also necessary for the Board to disburse all contributions according to the wishes of the donors. The handling of annuity and endowment funds in itself is a large work, as you will notice by the above statistics showing the amount of money which is invested.

Some of our endowments are received as bequests upon the death of the donors. However, many of the endowments which we now hold were first contributed on the annuity plan and became endowments at the death of the donor. The contributor who sends a donation on the annuity plan has the privilege of receiving an income on January 1 and July 1 of each year during his lifetime, and any time during his life he may suggest the kind of work that he wants his annuity income applied to after his death.

The following information with regard to endowment and annuities may be of interest:

| Year | Annuity Int. Paid | Annuities Invested | Endowment Invested |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1921 | $3,227.69 | $63,425.00 | $78,925.00 |
| 1922 | 3,246.13 | 71,325.00 | 87,835.00 |
| 1923 | 3,540.91 | 68,525.00 | 98,758.00 |
| 1924 | 3,553.42 | 75,775.00 | 125,700.00 |
| 1925 | 3,941.15 | 86,025.00 | 130,320.00 |
| 1926 | 4,424.00 | 91,725.00 | 137,932.00 |

Have you provided adequately for missions? Provision can be made by: 1. Taking out an annuity contract. 2. Signing an estate note. 3. Making a bequest. 4. Deeding your property, reserving the privilege of a life lease. Prompt action bars regrets. By making a contribution before death you may perpetuate your giving. Delay is usually fatal. For information write to Box 576, Elkhart, Indiana, or S. E. Allgyer, West Liberty, Ohio.

South America

Our missionary activity in Argentina was begun in 1917 by Bro. and Sister T. K. Hershey and Bro. and Sister J. W. Shank. This work is located south and west of Buenos Aires. At the present time our church is being represented in Argentina by 16 missionaries.

However, we believe that slow progress is nevertheless sure and all who help by their prayers and contributions will receive a reward for faithful efforts. We all need to trust, work and hope for greater results in the future than what have been recorded in the past. The missionaries will be able to report work opened in 8 stations at the end of 1926. $28,000.00 was sent to Argentina the past year for new church buildings. The following comparative budget of amounts sent to South America may be of interest.

India

The first missionaries of the American Mennonite Mission were appointed at Elkhart, Indiana, Nov. 4, 1898. The place to which the Lord led them was Dhamtari, in the Central Provinces, at which place they arrived and began work Nov. 22, 1899. This was our first mission to a non-Christian land. The Lord has blessed the work and we are able to report 27 missionaries on the field at the end of the year 1926. Because there was such a shortage of missionaries for a few years the progress of the work was somewhat hindered, but the missionaries in India are facing the future with great hopes with a communicant membership of 1,100 Christians and with seven organized congregations. We may expect with God's help and blessing and the support of the church in America greater results than have been recorded in the past. The following comparative budget of amounts sent to India during the year 1925 and 1926 may be of interest.

A TRIP TO OUR MISSIONS

By the Editor

When the statistical material was gathered for this issue of the Year Book we asked each one of our missions to give a short sketch of their work during the year. From the material thus gathered as well as from mission letters and articles in the church papers we have been able to compile this article. So we will ask the reader to take an imaginary trip with us to each one of these mission stations. Since our trip is imaginary we are at liberty to take any means of transportation that we wish. An airplane would get us over the route in the least time, but since some of us may hesitate to brave the risks of such a trip, even in our imaginations, perhaps we had better select the mode of travel that we like best. We will visit each one of the stations in the order in which they were founded.

Our first visit will be at the Home Mission in Chicago, Ill., the pioneer city mission in the Mennonite Church. Bro. and Sister Kanagy welcome us heartily and show us through their well-equipped building on South Union Ave. Working as they are in the largest city of the middle west they have plenty to keep them busy. During the summer they conducted a Vacation Bible School with a total enrollment of 146. During the school months they supplement this work with meetings that are much like those of the Week Day Church school. These activities, along with those that one usually finds at a city mission, keep the four workers busy.

Next we turn our faces eastward, toward the Keystone State, and after quite a trip we land at 112 East Vine St., Lancaster, Pa. We are met here by Bro. D. S. Krady who will tell us of some of the work during the past year. The time of the Sunday school was changed from 2:00 P. M. to 9:15 A. M. Under the former schedule the attendance was very irregular. Since the change this has been much improved; the children now call this their Sunday school, and they must definitely choose between going here or somewhere else. There were a few confessions during the year, but the converts need much teaching, and patience must be exercised. They have not had the teaching and training that most of us have had. The Mission here also operates a book store and a tract and job press.

We need not hurry so much for our next stop is only twelve miles distant. We must, however, climb the Welsh Mountain, but with a fairly good mountain road we soon find ourselves domiciled at the Welsh Mountain Mission and Good Samaritan Home. Bro. John H. Weaver is superintendent here. The work here has been changed somewhat within recent years. It partakes somewhat of the nature of a rest home for invalids and aged people. Three inmates are there at present. This necessitated the removing of the chapel from the mission home. Services are now held in the schoolhouse beside the mission building. The schedule of work is: Sunday school every Sunday afternoon, preaching every Sunday evening, Bible study every Tuesday evening. Besides the workers there are four communicant members and one applicant.

We now continue on our eastward way and soon land at 2151 North Howard St., in the city of Brotherly Love. Here we find Bro. and Sister Graybill and Sisters Barbara Herr and Emma Rudy happy in their work. They say, "The Lord has certainly blessed us during this year." In June a series of meetings was held, and early in November they enjoyed a live Sunday school meeting. Among the visible results during the year were three accessions to the church: first, a father, and later, a boy and girl from the Sunday school. There are thirty-five members who live in Philadelphia and attend the mission services. The workers here scatter the Gospel widely through the printed page. Three thousand copies of The Way are distributed monthly.

For our next visit we go westward and finally land at Ft. Wayne, Ind., where we are warmly welcomed by Bro. and Sister King, who have been faithfully laboring here for nearly twenty years. Souls are still being saved at this station and two of the workers, both converts of the Mission, are now engaged in Mission work in another city. We find the workers planning for a revival in January. This will be over by the time the Year Book reaches the readers. We are glad for this Gospel lighthouse in a wicked city.

For our next stop the pilot steers eastward and we disembark at 1939 Third St., S. E., Canton, Ohio. Here we are met by Bro. and Sister King at the Mission home adjoining the comfortable looking brick church. Here are some of the good things they have to report: "We have many reasons to praise His name for His many blessings to us. The attendance in Sunday school is good since the schools have opened. Our Primary and Beginner Departments are slowly growing. The Junior meeting which has recently been started is well attended and good interest is shown."

Our next visit takes us to the heart of the middle west and we stop at 2409 Farrow Ave., Kansas City, Kans., the home of Bro. J. D. Mininger and family. They have a wide field to work in, and they conduct two Sunday schools, one at 200 S. Seventh St., the other at 3701 Metropolitan Ave. The latter place is where the new church was built a few years ago. It is situated near the Children's Home. The Kansas City workers also conduct a Week Day Bible School, something rather new for our people. They are meeting with splendid success and the relations with the pupils, parents, the public school, and the superintendent of the Week Day Bible Schools has been very satisfactory. The fact that the church is located on the same steet, opposite the public school building, adds to the convenience of this work. We might want to linger in Kansas City to see Mr. McPherson, the eyeless, handless man who reads his Bible with his tongue, but our time is limited and, turning northeastward,

Our next stop is at a lake city, Toronto, Ont. We will first go to the Mission Home at 85 Gledhill Ave., and then later accompany Bro. and Sister Weber to the little church at 2174 Danforth. An idea of their work and aims may be had from this communication: "We can praise God for fairly good interest at the various meetings. The attendance and interest at the Sunday evening Gospel services is encouraging, but we are longing to see more saved.

Will you plead with the Lord for an outpouring of spiritual power upon the workers, and for a deep spirit of conviction upon those who are lost and self-satisfied?"

Coming to Pennsylvania again our next stop is at the river town of Columbia, Pa. Here our folks have a large church building and a large Sunday school enrollment. The highest attendance during the past year was 436. The girl's sewing circle has an enrollment of 217. Bro. David Groff is the superintendent. The workers ask that we continue to remember them in prayer.

Our next visit is to the factory town of Altoona, Pa. The work here has been blessed under the leadership of Bro. Joseph Nissley. We find the workers especially rejoicing because of the new church building that was erected during the past year. Since Bro. Nissley has an article on the work elsewhere in the Year Book we will not tarry long. Read the article for further details about the work in Altoona.

Our next visit takes us to "the Switzerland of America," the mountains of West Virginia. We have to cross many mountains to get to all the stations where our people work. Some of the most important places are Roaring, Job, Italy, Whitmer, and Horton. Some of these places are separated by mountain ranges and traveling is sometimes rather difficult. But we find the workers all doing faithful work, preaching, working in the sawmills and thus getting in touch with the people, teaching school, doing visitation work. This is the most extensive rural field which our people are working and it is a noble work indeed. The workers here are Bro. and Sister Rhine Benner, Bro. and Sister Warren Kratz, and Bro. and Sister Hiram Weaver. Revival meetings were held at Roaring recently, which resulted in three confessions.

We are soon on our way again with Lima, Ohio, as our next objective. Here we are met by an energetic looking "son of Erin" in the person of Bro. Maurice O'Connell who is himself a mission convert. Bro. and Sister O'Connell are both converts of the Ft. Wayne Mission. They are active workers, as is attested by the fact that they are reaching out and getting in contact with the people of the city. A six weeks' Bible school was held there during the latter part of 1926. It is the plan to conduct a Bible school each year. The workers say, "Our newly organized Bible class is growing with each meeting. We have five waitresses from one of the large hotels coming every night. They are very much interested and we believe it will lead some to Christ."

We must now get ready for a long trip, for our next landing place is in sunny California. We shall try to get to the mission at 151 West 73rd St., in time for one of the regular services. This is an organized congregation with Bro. J. P. Bontrager as pastor. They have a nice, new church building that meets the needs very well. The church is situated in a district where there is opportunity to reach out and get into contact with many people. Some Mexican families are within reach. Souls are being saved at this far western station, and it is a welcome spiritual oasis for the many visitors from all over the country who spend some time in California.

We now turn our bark again to the east, and after quite a trip find ourselves at 1308 W. 4th Ave., Knoxville, Tenn. This station in the Southland is well manned in the persons of Bro. and Sister Wm. Jennings, and Bro. and Sister Frank Raber. As in many of the other missions many gifts were distributed to the needy over the Christmas season.

May the Lord abundantly bless the work at Knoxville.

Once more we turn our faces toward dear old Pennsylvania, and this time we land at Norristown where Bro. and Sister Lederach are on hand to greet us. They have been active during the past year in ministering to both the spiritual and physical needs of the people with whom they work. The hand of death has been rather heavy upon the band that worships there. Three members were removed during the year. One of these was a woman who was baptized in the hospital, where she died after lingering for weeks and suffering untold agony from cancer. Nearly 600 garments and seven tons of coal were supplied to needy families. The average attendance in Sunday school for the year ending in September was 89.

"Westward ho!" is again our slogan and we soon find ourselves at 900 Garden St., Peoria, Ill., where Bro. and Sister Earl Miller have charge. Our time is short, but we will listen to what Bro. Miller has to say about the work during the past year: "The Mission has enjoyed a happy and prosperous year. A canvass was made of the district of about one mile square and it was found that there are about 2,634 persons living in the district. Of this number 770 make no profession. 403 of the latter do not attend church at all. Besides the canvassing there were about 452 visits made by the workers here, coming in touch with approximately 1,130 persons in these visits." They are also investigating a new and needy field with the view of starting another Sunday school. The prospects are good, but there seems as yet to be no building available for Sunday school use.

Since we are following the missions in the order in which they were established our next visit takes us to Wichita, Kans. Bro. Vernon Shellenberger is superintendent here and we find an active mission church with 23 members. One of the recent occurrences was the ordination of Bro. Roy Thayer to the ministry. Revival services were conducted recently in which four souls came out on the Lord's side. The workers here feel the need of the prayers of God's people.

Our next stop is again in the east and we continue on our way until we reach Reading, Pa. Here we find the workers rejoicing in the fact that they have a commodious place of worship. The church building was purchased from the Lutherans, which accounts for the fact that in appearance it is not quite according to the usual Mennonite type of architecture. A picture appears elsewhere. Accessions have been made during the year, and the workers face the coming year with courage and hope. Bro. J. B. Gehman is the superintendent.

Once again we face westward with our objective in the far northwest almost on the Pacific Coast. Portland, Oreg., is the youngest of our city mission stations, but the work has been growing rapidly. Let us hear what the workers have to say of the past year's work: "During the past year the work has been growing. Another place for regular services has been opened, namely the Sunday school at 185 Russel St. Our Vacation Bible School was more largely attended this year than any previous one. The interest manifested in the school and evangelistic meetings in connection with the school was very encouraging. Twenty souls confessed Christ during the meetings. Perhaps the most valuable addition to our working equipment during the year is the Gospel Truck, which has proved to be a great convenience and time-saver in going to the different services, also as a means to gather in those for services who would not otherwise come to hear the Gospel."

This is the last of our established mission stations, but we must mention two others. Work has been started in Detroit, Mich., and the prospects are good, but a consecrated brother and sister are needed to give their whole time to the work. At last reports Bro. Silas Weldy was conducting evangelistic meetings with good interest. In Tampa, Fla., Bro. C. B. Byer is making some progress in opening up mission work. There are other places where mission work is carried on by our people under the direction of local conferences and local boards, but we have now completed the circuit of the stations that are listed in the Year Book. We hope you have found the trip interesting. Sometime we may take a similar visit to our Charitable Institutions.

A REVIEW OF THE YEAR'S WORK OF THE EASTERN MENNONITE BOARD OF MISSIONS AND CHARITIES

By John H. Mellinger

In taking a retrospective view of the history of the various activities of the Mennonite Church one cannot help being strongly impressed with the fact that every advance movement was met with strong opposition by the more conservative elements of the Church and work of this nature had to be pushed with a great degree of caution in order that the various groups should not be offended to the degree that their confidence could not be retained and eventually brought to a realization that it was not detrimental to the welfare of the Church. This, no doubt, is the history of all movements of this nature in all organizations and it was certainly the experience of the Mennonite Church in Lancaster County when the Sunday school and Mission causes were introduced among us. Many happy memories (and some not so happy) still linger with many of those that had a "part and lot" in this matter.

But all these things are a matter of history and while the work is apparently firmly established, there are still difficulties and trials to be met with in the various stages of the work, yet we feel more like looking hopefully into the future as well as exercising ourselves with the problems of the present, and sometimes we feel as though we would examine the work on hand and find if any real progress is being made. It is now about thirty-two years since the mission work took concrete form and was inaugurated by the organization of what was called the "Mennonite Sunday School Mission." The work was carried on by this body until the organization of the present Eastern Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities in 1914.

Space will not permit us to take into consideration the various activities of this board since its organization but we are asked for a write-up of what we consider the progress made during the last year. While it has not been all that we would like to have the privilege of recording, yet we feel that a healthy growth is being made, although the experience of other boards engaged in similar work has been our experience also; that is, there is a lack of efficient workers, and yet we feel that our present force of workers is giving us their best.

During the past year our work has been extended and enlarged in various ways, both in the rural and city districts. A year previous to this a station had been opened at Oak Shade in the southern part of Lancaster county. This building was an abandoned Baptist Church, and, the community desiring that preaching services be held, the Board considered the matter and regular services are now held and a Sunday school has been organized. Protracted meetings have also been held and several conversions and additions to the Church were among the fruits. By the consent of the Conference, Bro. John F. Bressler was placed in charge of the work.

Some miles south of this place, on the lower Susquehanna, an immense power developing plant is being built, employing hundreds of men, and the consent of those in charge was secured to hold religious services with these men. These meetings were held outdoors as long as weather conditions permitted and were then discontinued until arrangements could be made to hold them indoors.

A few miles north of Ephrata, near Cocalico, there is quite a large section where no Sunday school privileges could be enjoyed except at one place where sessions were held every six weeks. An abandoned church was also near-by and our Field Worker, Bro. John W. Weaver, made an investigation as to conditions and secured the consent of the trustees of the building and opened preaching services. A short time later Sunday school was also started and quite an interest is being manifested.

At the station in Columbia the interest in the Sunday school seems to be continually on the increase. The corps of workers there, with Bro. David Groff as superintendent, seem to be devoted to the work and at present there are nearly four hundred little folks in the school and a large field is continually open for personal work throughout the town. While some conditions in connection with the work are not what might be desired, yet the work seems to be greatly prospering.

The Mission Church at Reading, Pa. Purchased from a Lutheran Congregation

In the city of Reading quite a change has been made. Some years ago, when the work was first opened in Reading, a location was secured at the corner of Thirteenth and Douglass Streets which consisted of an apartment house and store room. This was found unsuitable and two years ago a hall was rented on Eleventh Street for the services and a house was purchased on Twelfth Street as a residence for the workers.

About this time the Lutheran congregation that worshiped at Twelfth and Windsor Streets offered their church building for sale, as they considered a change of location advisable. The Executive Committee considered the price ($24,000) too high. However, later on they favorably considered our offer of $12,000 and the sale was consummated. The property was transferred to us and on October 31 of this year the first services were held by our people. We sincerely hope that with better facilities the work may continue to prosper. Bro. J. B. Gehman and wife are in charge of the work at this place, with Sisters Mabel and Mary Landis as workers. A regular pastor to take charge of the work at this place we consider as being necessary.

In Philadelphia the work is going on as usual with enlargement of its scope being under consideration. Bro. J. Paul Graybill in charge of the work there proposes to open tent meetings this coming summer at a place a short distance north of the location of the Mission. This is a real "slummy" part of the city and religious teaching is very needful. What can be accomplished remains to be seen.

At our Welsh Mountain station the industrial work has been almost entirely abandoned, as conditions do not necessitate enlargement along these lines. Religious teaching and care of the poor and unfortunate constitute the greater part of the work. A public school entirely for colored children has been opened by the Salisbury Township school directors and is also fostered in part by our workers there and is proving a great success.

Our relief work is, of course, not of the magnitude that it was in the closing years of the war or the years immediately following, but is still being exercised when conditions call for it. Some years ago a fund of $5,000 was set aside and invested in securities that could at once be turned into cash for the purpose of applying to any need that might suddenly arise. This year was the first time that use was made of these funds, part of them being applied to the disaster that overtook Florida and part to help relieve the suffering caused by the great earthquake in Armenia.

It has been the practice of the Board to work with our sewing circles in the procuring and distributing of clothing among the needy. An immense amount of clothing, both new and second-hand, was sent to Belgium, Russia, and the Near East in the years following the closing of the war. The past year three shipments were made—one to India, one to Mount Carmel in the Anthracite Coal Regions, and one to Canada for the benefit of the Russian immigrants continually arriving there. This last shipment consisted of nearly four tons of new and used clothing and bed clothing.

What God has in store for the future for the Board, of course, is unknown to us, but we sincerely hope and pray that He may ever lead in the work and we may be ever ready to faithfully follow such leading.

VALUES IN EDUCATION

By Edward Yoder

The time seems to be past when it is necessary to urge upon young people the value of having high school and college training. High schools have become general and attendance therein, in some places at least, has been made obligatory. The halls of colleges and universities, especially of state-supported institutions, are overflowing with young men and women who seek to pursue their education beyond the high school. Seemingly great numbers of people believe that a college education is worth while. The movement towards college education has taken on almost the semblance of a mass movement.

It is this phase of present day educational tendencies which suggests the question as to what are the real and essential values to be sought for in getting an education, and particularly a college education. In a past day when in large groups of people the young man or woman who went to college was the rare exception, the real values of such a course were more sure to be well considered. At present, when going to college is becoming the customary thing to do, when young people feel the pull to follow the crowd, there is occasion for emphasizing anew the real values of such education. The following are bare suggestions as to what a few of these values are.

Manifestly, one of the things to be sought for in getting an education is knowledge. Unless the pupil has an innate thirst for knowledge, he is not likely to learn much even in college. On the contrary, possessed of such a thirst for knowledge, he will learn, whether he goes to school or not. Remember that schools have no monopoly on knowledge nor on the means for acquiring the same. Keen observation and "attendance to reading" will give to anyone in the course of years a valuable fund of useful knowledge. In small children the desire for knowledge is termed curiosity. It is a God-given instinct which impels them to discover for themselves the world about them. Too often is this natural thirst for knowledge in childhood and youth repressed by parents and teachers unwisely, whereas it should be carefully fostered.

But knowledge alone is of little value. It is not an end in itself. "Knowledge is power," says the old adage. "The wise man is strong, yea, the man of knowledge increaseth strength," says the Bible. But unfortunately it can be a power for destruction as well as for construction. It is an instrument, a weapon, a high-powered motor, and its worth depends on the one who uses it. This fact, however, makes out no brief for wilful ignorance. Self-mastery must be attained. "He that ruleth his own spirit is mightier than he that taketh a city." A second important value, then, in obtaining an education is a noble purpose, an ideal that triumphs over selfishness and personal ambition and gives direction and dignity to the whole life.

A third value in education is the attitude of love and respect for the truth. Truth it is that "shall make you free." Truth frees men from ignorance, from superstitious fears, and from bigotry. It is precisely the quest and search for truth that ennobles and sanctifies the study of facts and the acquisition of knowledge. Nor is it easy to find the truth. Falsehood and error are oftenest found on the surface, while truth must be laboriously searched out of the depths. Common experience teaches that mere appearances are often deceptive and erroneous. The earth appears flat, but the courage of some intrepid navigators who sailed around it first proved that its shape is not what it appears to the human eye to be.

Another value in education is the attitude of humility of mind. The temptation to pride of intellect is often particularly insidious. And yet an assumed attitude of humility is even worse than pride. It is always a mark of scant knowledge and shallower learning when a student is puffed up over his intellectual achievements. The men and women who have studied longest and gone farthest in their intellectual pursuits are invariably the last to assume the attitude of intellectual superiority. No one is truly learned until he has learned that all he knows or can know is but a mere trifle compared with what he does not and cannot know. We are all as children picking up pebbles beside the great ocean of truth. Some find a few more pebbles than others, but the difference between their small collections is really negligible. This viewpoint, while hard to achieve, leads men and women to be modest in setting forth opinions of their own. It fosters a charitable attitude toward the opinions of other people. Furthermore, the fact that knowledge is a power, suggests that its possession is not an article of personal adornment, but a solemn trust and responsibility, and fosters a feeling of modesty.

Also fundamental as a value in education is the attitude of labor and application. As in any other line of endeavor, so in the pursuit of knowledge, patient labor and toil is the price of achievement. It is a delusion to seek an education to avoid hard work and so try to find an easy way to make a living. The prolonged intellectual application necessary for success in learning is even more exhausting than physical labor. "Much study is a weariness of the flesh," was the observation of a very wise man already long ago. Schools and colleges are sometimes guilty of catering to the natural indolence of students by allowing them to pick out only such courses of study as are easiest for them and require the least effort on their own part. But the wise and thoughtful student who desires fullest returns for time and money spent will select some courses that are hard and that demand real effort from him. Such application gives him the necessary mental training and discipline for success. The brilliant student is rather at a disadvantage because he is tempted to pass his courses without exerting himself, while the duller student who practices severe application will in life generally outstrip his brighter fellow. The one who cannot attend school can by diligent study and application realize this same value, equally as well as the student in school.

The ability to think critically is also a value worth seeking in getting an education. By this we understand the habit of testing for one's self the ideas, opinions, and theories that enter into his experience. "Prove all things, hold fast that which is good," is the advice of a keen thinker of long ago. No idea is necessarily perfect merely because it has been inherited from the forefathers. Neither is any idea better simply because it is new and modern. Critical, sober thinking is necessary to evaluate the things that come into a student's experience. Much havoc especially is wrought by the students' failure to distinguish sharply in his thinking between proved facts and the mere opinions and theories of other thinkers. Such critical thinking does not repudiate the value of authority as a source for truth. Since the human mind has definite limitations, the critical thinker will accept truth from reliable authority equally with truth experienced or discovered for himself. College training can help a student to form the habit of critical thinking. But too often it fails in this also. Sometimes students, coming from communities where certain ideas are traditional, into a college community where different ideas obtain, swallow down uncritically the new ideas and are further deluded by the notion that now at last they have begun to think for themselves. They have uncritically exchanged one set of ideas of another, and may not have learned the art of thinking for themselves at all.

Finally, personal religion is a fundamental value in getting an education. "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom." The student needs to make the necessary personal adjustments toward such great and fundamental facts and realities as God, sin, and immortality. Without such an adjustment his life is out of tune, a sad misfit, and an eternal tragedy.

Last of all, it needs to be understood that any or all of these values of education can be realized by any student whether in or out of school. In one sense there are no self-made men, because everyone is dependent upon and makes use of what others have done before him. But in another sense everyone is self-made, because success in learning depends ultimately upon the individual's own labor, application, and initiative. Courses in school aim to give opportunity for learning in a logical and systematic manner. Instructors can give direction and inspiration to the student, but the actual labor of learning rests finally with the student himself.

"PINTO—THEN AND NOW"

By Milton B. Miller

General Description

We think of Pinto as a little village with its surrounding community along the Potomac River, about eight miles west of Cumberland, Md. Across the River we see the large farm known as the "Washington Bottom Farm," a tract of about four hundred acres of very fertile river bottom land, besides the wood and pasture lands farther up along the hills.

Up the valley we see a number of farms, mostly of bottom land.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the Western Maryland Railroad run through this valley along the Potomac. Both these railroads have accommodation stations. The B. & O. station on the Maryland side of the River, is called "Potomac" and the Western Maryland station is called "Pinto." It is on the West Virginia side. The latter road soon crosses the River, and the two run side by side as you look up the valley.

At a distance we see "Dan's Mountain." On this mountain is a high point, a huge rock, known as "Dan's Rock." From this point one can see for miles and miles. Many have spent the night, or part of it, there to see the sun rise, but oftentimes they are hindered by smoke or heavy fog in the valley.

Looking down the valley we see the "Nobly Mountain," with a glimpse of peach orchards here and there. In the village we see a store and post office, a schoolhouse, and a few dwellings.

First Mennonite Settlers and Church Work

On Dec. 26, 1907, four Mennonite and Amish families moved to Pinto from the community of Grantsville, Md.

As there was no place of worship at Pinto these folks attended the Methodist Church and Sunday school at Short Gap, about three miles up the mountain in West Virginia. This continued for about two years. In the meantime, Bro. D. H. Bender passed through the section and stopped off to visit these families. Bro. Bender was invited to preach in the Methodist Church, which he did, with a pleasing effect. Upon this, these "peculiar people" (for such they were to the West Virginians) were invited to have their ministers preach for them at any time. Later Brethren N. E. Miller and Ed Miller of Springs, Pa., preached a number of times at this church.

Considering the fact that many of the children around Pinto were unable to attend Sunday school because of the distance to the nearest church, Sunday school was organized and held in a room adjoining the dairy barn now owned by Bro. Norman Yoder. This continued for about a year when a schoolhouse was built on the West Virginia side.

They then moved the Sunday school to this new schoolhouse as the Maryland law in Allegany Co., prohibited any religious services being held in the schoolhouses in this County. The membership was small, but the work went on. Church services were held regularly every two weeks. Pinto had by this time become a mission station in the Southwestern Pa. Conference District, and was in charge of Bro. Ed Miller. Bro. Miller conducted a series of meetings with favorable results, about twelve or fifteen new members being added to the church. God be thanked for the first revival at Pinto.

The New Church at Pinto, Md.

Later Bro. Miller with his family moved from Springs, Pa., to his new field of labor, remaining about six or seven years, after which he moved to Inwood, W. Va., a distance of about 85 miles, still filling the regular appointments with occasionally a substitute.

In the early part of 1924, Bro. John F. Grove of Greencastle, Pa., was secured to conduct evangelistic meetings, which continued for about eighteen days, with God's blessings manifested. It was a revival indeed. There was an addition of twenty members to the church besides a number of confessions from members, and some confessions where the people preferred uniting with other churches.

In this class of twenty there were entire families. The ages ranged from nine to about sixty. It was a scene touching to the heart and long to be remembered, as this group was received into church fellowship by water baptism.

Again more keenly than ever, the need of a church building was felt. Previous to this efforts had been made to erect a building, but they always failed. The little schoolhouse by the hill (a new one, not "a ragged beggar sunning") was overcrowded during the revival and continued so in the Sunday school and church services.

It was the privilege of the writer to spend a part of the time with Bro. Grove during these meetings. We met with varied conditions in the many homes that we visited.

The first communion service was held in the spring of 1924. There was a vacant chair, as one of the family heads that had been received into the church had passed into eternity.

The writer of this article was placed in charge of Pinto Mission Station, at the Southwestern Pa. District Conference Session in 1925.

In November of 1925, we had a Bible Conference of four days, with Brethren S. G. Shetler of Johnstown, Pa., and N. E. Miller, Springs, Pa., as instructors. Good interest was shown, and again we were reminded of the need of a church building. We kept talking about it, and hoping and praying for it. There were several more confessions at the close of this conference.

In the spring of 1926 Bro. J. W. Hess of Akron, Pa., held a series of evangelistic meetings. There were more confessions, and others were spiritually strengthened.

Prior to these meetings, a committee had been appointed to lay plans for the erection of a church building, and appeals were sent out to some of the congregations for help. The Executive Committee of the Southwestern Pennsylvania Conference called a meeting at the home of Bro. Yoder, of Pinto, to investigate the advisability of erecting a church building.

This committee unanimously decided to encourage the steps already taken, and assured us of healthy support financially and otherwise.

Intentions were announced, and contractors of various types took up much of the committee's time, till bids were closed and work was begun.

The New Church

We now have a building of concrete blocks, size 30 by 48 feet, located in a shady place overlooking the Potomac Valley. It is a plain, convenient, substantial place of worship, for which we thank God and all who rendered aid in its construction.

Our membership is about fifty, and the Sunday school enrollment about seventy-five, with a good average attendance.

The dedication services for the new building were held Aug. 22, 1926. We were pleased to have so many visitors with us from various congregations. Come again.

In November following we had another Bible Conference with Bro. S. G. Shetler, of Johnstown, Pa., and Bro. Abram Metzler, of Masontown, Pa., as instructors. The conference was well attended and much good was done, for which we thank God.

To us since 1907 Pinto has changed. A few have gone to their future place of abode. We have gained comparatively many members. We have lost some of our former members, they "having loved this present world," which we regret very much.

We would be glad to have others move in, as the farm referred to, "The Washington Bottom," is for sale, and it could nicely be divided into a number of farms.

The rubber plants in Cumberland, about eight miles from Pinto, furnish employment for many; also other industries such as railroad shops, etc. Some of our sisters at present work at the cellulose plant, about two or three miles from Pinto. Then, too, the apple and peach orchards, and the cold storage house, or packing house, in Pinto, give employment to quite a few.

In general, conditions look favorable for the future, both for the church and community.

"Let us not be weary in well doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not" (Gal. 6:9).

HISTORICAL SKETCH OF THE MENNONITE GOSPEL MISSION, AT ALTOONA, PA.

By J. M. Nissley

The Mennonite Gospel Mission of Fourth Avenue and Twenty-fifth Street Altoona, Pa., was started through the outgrowth of a sentiment from brethren of the Eastern Amish Mennonite Conference who desired to extend their mission activities. The Conference in session in 1906 appointed a committee to investigate different cities in the western part of the state. Among the cities investigated were Pittsburgh, Johnstown, Altoona, and others. The results of the investigation left the impression that Altoona would be a favorable location for a mission station. In August, 1907, the Southwestern Conference of Pennsylvania appointed a committee for a similar purpose. Upon this investigation an urgent request came from the Mennonite members who were then living in Altoona to start a mission there. One of the members of this appointed committee presented the appeal of the Altoona brethren to the Eastern A. M. Conference Committee at the General Conference which was held at West Liberty, Ohio, in 1909. At this Conference it was decided that both Committees should work jointly in starting a mission at Altoona as soon as workers and a building could be secured. At the same time the Lord directed the brethren, and they got the consent of Bro. and Sister E. F. Hartzler to take up the work as superintendent and matron of the proposed mission.

It was suggested that Bro. Hartzler with Bro. J. N. Durr, Martinsburg, Pa., go to Altoona to see if they could find a suitable place to start the work. On October, 29, 1909, the brethren named came to Altoona and located a storeroom and house that could be rented. Immediately the committee was called and it was decided to rent the building on 1713 Eleventh Ave., and open up the work.

On February 6, 1910, the dedication services of the Mission were held. The number present at the services was seventeen including the speakers on the program, but the interest was not lacking. Bro. Daniel Kauffman preached the dedicatory sermon.

Under the superintendency of Bro. Hartzler the first year there was an average attendance of thirty-three pupils in Sunday school. During the year thirteen applied for church membership. Sister Anna L. Miller of the Springs Congregation came to assist in the work, April, 1910.

Bro. Hartzler's failing health caused him to resign and in November, 1910, Bro. J. L. Stauffer and wife of Spring City, Pa., took charge of the work. Some of the assistant workers were: Sisters Fannie Kurtz, Ella Smucker, Clara and Sylvia Steiner, Sadie Martin, Jacob E. and Rhoda Martin, Sadie Spiker, C. F. and Gertrude Derstine, Florence Byler, and Lura Lauver.

The mission hall was in need of repairs and the rent was high. An opportunity now came for the purchase of a more suitable building. In taking advantage of this opportunity the building on 1614 Eighth Ave., was purchased and the exchange of locations was made in the spring of 1912.

In 1918 Bro. Stauffer received an urgent call from the Virginia brethren to teach Bible at the Eastern Mennonite School, Harrisonburg, Va. After being here eight years he handed in his resignation and accepted the offered position. The assistants, Bro. Jacob E. and Sister Rhoda Martin of Chambersburg, Pa., were expected to assume responsibility for the work but on account of ill health in the family could not do so.

After this Bro. Joseph M. Nissley and wife, Alice H. Nissley, of Lancaster Co., Pa., former Superintendent and Matron of the Mennonite Old People's Home, Marshallville, Ohio, were secured for the vacancy and took up the work September 9, 1919. They are the present superintendent and matron of the Mission, with Sister Lura I. Lauver as assistant.

On account of the number of business establishments crowding out the residences on Eighth Ave. and also because it was desirable to have a more suitable place for worship, the Local Board of the Mission brought the suggestion of changing locations to the Southwestern Pa., Conference held with the Masontown, Pa., congregation in the fall of 1923. The Conference, looking favorably upon this move, appointed a committee of brethren, Aaron Loucks, Scottdale, Pa., and J. S. Mast, Elverson, Pa., to jointly work with the members of the Local Board of the Mission, for the purpose of looking for a more favorable location, and to sell the mission property and build a new church building. Some of the members of the committee spent some time in looking over the city for a site. They found a vacant lot in the residential section of the city and called together the remaining members of the committee and on Jan. 1, 1924, it was decided to purchase the lot at Fourth Ave., and Twenty-fifth Street. The deed was received July 1, 1924. For two summers evangelistic services were held in a tent erected on the lot.

The sale of the Eighth Ave. property was made March, 1926. Immediately steps were taken to draw up plans for a church building and to secure a contractor to superintend the construction of the building, with the understanding that we buy all the material.

April 21, 1926, marked the beginning of the breaking of the ground for the proposed building. The size of the church building is 34 by 50 feet, outside measurement with a daylight basement. The building has a brick-cased wall, an eight foot quarried limestone basement wall, and an asbestos shingle roof. In the rear of the auditorium there are two classrooms with folding doors that may be thrown open, thus making available the entire floor for auditorium purposes. In the rear is the pastor's study with doors leading into the auditorium and the rostrum. Above the classrooms in the rear is another room suitable for class work. Entering into the building from the street, inside the door there is a platform with steps leading either way to the basement, and a stairway leading up to the auditorium. The walls of the auditorium are finished in plaster of buff color.

The floors are of yellow pine and the wood work is finished with golden oak color to match with the color of the pews. The basement is equipped with two lavatories and wash basins. The floor is of concrete covered with a yellow pine flooring, finished in natural color. The basement is divided into three classrooms with folding doors so as to make one room when desired. The center room, 24 by 32 feet, is used to hold all of our midweek services. There is an additional room for a clothing dispensary. The boiler room is equipped with a natural gas boiler attached to a vapor vacuum heating sistem. At the rear side is a door leading out on a concrete walk to the Workers' Home, 2504 Fourth Ave., which was purchased June 1, 1926.

The Mission family moved into their new home Sept. 9, 1926, with the kindly assistance of Brethren D. D. Stoltzfus and Clarence Metzler, Martinsburg, Pa., who brought their auto trucks. They were accompanied by Brethren Albert and Fred Kauffman of the Martinsburg Congregation. The farewell services at 1614 Eighth Ave., were held Sunday evening, Sept. 26. The new church building was dedicated with appropriate services Saturday evening, Oct. 2, and all day Sunday, Oct. 3, with a large attendance. Twenty-three Mennonite congregations were represented.

The name of the new Church, The First Mennonite Church, is inscribed on a stone slab in the center of the brick wall above the front doorway.

The sale price of the Eighth Ave., property was $16,000.00 cash. The cost of the new church building was $8,994.84; pews, $773.84. The latter were paid for by different Sunday schools in various conference districts. The cost of the Workers' Home with portion taxes was $7,033.84; lot $1875.00. Total indetedness, with old debt and new buildings, before the offering of the day, was $2,650.14. The offering for the day amounted to $480.49, leaving a total debt on the Mission property of $2,169.65. The following resolution was passed at the services. Resolved; That we appeal to the various congregations of the conferences, under whose auspices the Altoona Mission is conducted, to liquidate the debt and thus permit all future contributions to be used for the extension of the work.

We praise the Lord that He has made it possible for this change of location. The present Local Board is comprised of J. N. Durr, Pres., Joseph M. Nissley, Treas., representing the Southwestern Pennsylvania Mennonite Conference; and Uriel S. Zook, Secy., representing the Eastern A. M. Conference.

The work has not been without its visible results: Souls have confessed Christ, some of whom have gone to their reward, leaving a bright testimony. At present there are forty members in our mission church. Three of our workers have been ordained as ministers, and one as a bishop. One sister is laboring in the foreign field, and a number of the workers are in active service elsewhere in the Lord's vineyard.

We beg a continued interest in your financial support, and in your prayers in behalf of the work that the Altoona Mission may be a real soul-saving station.

2504 Fourth Ave., Altoona, Pa.

"What a difference....between giving up the world, and the world giving us up! We may do the one with comparative ease, but when we feel the world despises us as Christ was despised, we shall discover, unless He fills and satisfies the heart, that had a value for its esteem that we were not aware of."

EVENTS THAT HAPPENED FOUR HUNDRED YEARS AGO IN MENNONITE CHURCH HISTORY

By John Horsch

On June 10, 1527, a public discussion was held in St. Martins Church, in Basel, between representatives of the Swiss Brethren and Johannes Oecolampad, the friend of Zwingli and reformer of Basel.

On February 8, 1527, George Wagner, of Emmering in Bavaria, suffered martyrdom by burning at the stake in Munich. The old Mennonite Hymnbook "Ausbund" contains a hymn describing his death No. 11). This book is yet in use in the Old Order Amish congregations.

On November 10, 1527, the Duke of Bavaria, issued a mandate demanding that all Anabaptists who did not recant should be burned at the stake, while those who recanted should be beheaded.

On November 25, 1527, Leonard Schiemer, a bishop of the Brethren in Austria, was apprehended and shortly afterward burned at the stake at Rotenburg in the Tyrol. A fine hymn written by him is found in "Ausbund" (No. 31).

In April of the year 1527, the translation of the Prophets, by Hans Denk and Ludwig Hätzer, was published at Worms on the Rhine. This version was repeatedly reprinted before Luther's translation appeared. In all probability Hätzer had never formally renounced state church Protestantism, nor received faith baptism; in other words, he was not an Anabaptist.

August 12 to 14, 1527, a conference was held in Zurich by official representatives of the governments of the Protestant Swiss states of Zurich, Bern, and St. Gallen, for the purpose of agreeing on uniform measures of persecution against the Swiss Brethren. As a result a severe mandate was issued by the three governments, stipulating that persistent Brethren should be put to death. "But such fortitude in suffering death," says the chronicler Sicher, of St. Gallen who records the agreement just mentioned, "was never seen nor heard of outside of the legends of the saints of old."

On January 5, 1527, the same day that Felix Mantz suffered martydom in Zurich, a cruel sentence was pronounced and executed against Georg vom Hause Jakob, called Blaurock, in the same city. He was a foreigner and therefore was not sentenced to death. He was "whipped all the way from the Fishmarket to the Niederdorf Gate until the blood flowed," the upper part of his body having been stripped. He was banished from the state of Zurich. Zwingli in his booklet "Elenchus" made a remark showing that he approved of this barbarous procedure.

Michael Sattler and the Conference of Schlatten

On May 21, 1527, Michael Sattler was burned at the stake, after most cruel tortures, at Rottenburg on the Neckar, in Swabia. Before his renunciation of the Roman Catholic Church he had been an abbot in a cloister. He was a man of learning, of noble Christian character and deep piety, a prominent leader among the Swiss Brethren. He presided at the conference of Schlatten (to be mentioned in the following paragraph). An account of his martydom, together with his letters, was repeatedly printed in a book entitled. "Goldene Aepfel in Silbernen Schalen," as well as in the Martyrs' Mirror. An edition of each of these books was issued by the Ephrata press in the eighteenth century.

On February 26, 1527, the first Confession of Faith of the Swiss Brethren was approved and adopted by a synod held at Schlatten in the southern part of Baden. The Mennonite people of that time were known as the Swiss Brethren. Menno Simons united with a branch of this body about nine years after the conference of Schlatten. It may be worth observing that while in our time nearly all denominations officially known as "Brethren" perform the act of baptism by immersion, the Swiss Brethren baptized by effusion.

The First Mennonite Confession of Faith

The Confession of Schlatten consists of seven articles. It does not aim to be a complete statement of the faith and practice of the Swiss Brethren, but sets forth only those points on which the Brethren differed from state church Protestantism and Romanism. At the same time the Confession contains definite declarations against the position of a number of persons spoken of as "false brethren" who proposed to conform "in outward things" to the demands of the state church. They were unwilling to bear persecution for the faith. In this conference they were not represented. It is stated that the Confession was adopted "without a dissenting voice."

In theory these "false brethren" held the Scriptures to be the inerrant authoritative Word of God, but in fact they did not take this doctrine seriously. They claimed, so the Confession states, that "faith and love will bear everything," and for those who have these qualities "nothing is harmful" in the way of doing things that are contrary to the letter of Scripture. From the leaders of state church Protestantism they accepted the opinion that separation from the state church is not consistent with the requirements of Christian love. The Confession states further that these "false brethren" had caused "very great offense" by advocating such views. The first Mennonite Confession of Faith, then, is an important witness to the fact that the early Mennonites stood for absolute loyalty to the Scriptures as the inerrant Word of God, and it was for this principle that they bore the cross of persecution.

Persecution by State Church Protestantism

On January 5, 1527, Felix Mantz, one of the founders of the first Swiss Brethren congregation in Zurich, suffered martyrdom by drowning in the Limmat river at Zurich. He was the first one to be put to death for his faith by Protestants. His execution, therefore, caused a great sensation. State church Protestantism claimed for itself the right to dissent from Romanism, demanding toleration from the Roman Catholic Church. At the same time the Protestant state authorities persecuted those who dissented from the established Protestant creed.

It is interesting to notice that the leading reformers representing state church Protestantism (Luther, Zwingli, and others) at first defended the principle of liberty of conscience, and even later, while consenting to the execution of dissenters, seriously attempted to uphold this principle in theory. These reformers advanced the curious claim that the dissenters, such as the Mennonites, were enjoying religious freedom. This claim they based on the assertion that in their hearts the dissenters could believe what they might choose. The persecuting authorities held that they were not punished for believing as they did, but for refusing to obey the civil authorities in outward things.

The disobedience of the dissenters consisted in their failure to consent to the baptism of their infants, to be regular attendants and communicants in the state church, to abstain from holding separate meetings and from teaching their doctrine to others. The state church theologians, as intimated, defended the theory that to punish them for such disobedience was consistent with the principle of liberty of faith, and was not persecution. They disregarded the fact that to conform to the demands of the state church meant the denial of their religious convictions. The only religious liberty which the dissenters had under the existing state church system was the liberty to deny their faith.

The claim that those who consented to the death of the dissenters stood for the principle of liberty of conscience is absurd. In this connection it may be worth noticing that in the state churches it was only too generally true that the people believed one thing and practiced another to satisfy the civil authorities. There was a general willingness, on the part of the population at large, to do anything that the state would prescribe, rather than to differ from the established church and suffer persecution.

Hans Denk and the Principle of Toleration

In the autumn of the year 1527 Hans Denk died at Basel in Switzerland. He had been baptized by Hubmaier at Augsburg, in Swabia, on Whitsuntide of the previous year. He was a learned and talented man and a notable writer, but was never a member of the Swiss Brethren Church, and is mentioned here principally to correct the obvious error that he represented the Swiss Brethren. Before his death he made his peace with the Reformed state church. He recanted his opinion of the need of believers' baptism and expressed regret that he had ever baptized any one.

On various points of doctrine Denk differed from the Swiss Brethren. Certain passages in his writings have been interpreted to mean that he believed doctrine and creed to be secondary. He is supposed to have held similar views as regards the principle of toleration, as are advocated by the Modernists of our time, namely that there should be general toleration within the church for all sorts of religious, or irreligious opinions and practices, and that the church should not be committed to any particular doctrine or creed.

The Swiss Brethren, on the contrary, held that not the church but the civil authorities, or the state, should take such an attitude of general toleration. The fathers of the Mennonite Church believed that persons, or religious organizations, representing various beliefs should be tolerated by the civil authorities, and no one should be banished from the state or otherwise persecuted for his religious belief. This is the principle of liberty of conscience.

The Swiss Brethren emphatically rejected the idea that the Christian Church could consistently take the same position on the point of toleration, as it is right for the state to take. The Brethren did not by any means hold that the church should open her doors to any one desiring to come in, without regard to his acceptance or rejection of Christian doctrine. They believed, and rightfully, that an organization taking such an attitude would lose its right to the Christian name. They refused to unite with the state church for the reason that they were determined to be faithful in maintaining the doctrines and practices of the inerrant Word of God.

THE BOOKBINDERY

By Levi Mumaw

During the year 1926 a department of activity was added to our manufacturing plant that will be of more than ordinary importance in the work of the Publishing House in the years to come. The Publication Board had recognized the need of a bookbindery in connection with the printing plant of the institution from the beginning of the work but the installation was delayed for a number of good reasons.

A View of the Binding Department. Gathering Table in the Foreground

While the delay caused great inconvenience and delays in the delivery of our products at times, we believe good judgment was exercised in the matter. The plant that now has been installed could not have been expected in our earlier efforts. We are equipped to take care of a wide range of work and do it efficiently and with reasonable speed. The total amount paid out for the equipment was about $10,500.00. This amount was raised by direct solicitation. The equipment is all in first class condition and well adapted for the kind of work that is required. Certain other machinery could be purchased to bring labor costs to a lower basis but the additional cost of the machinery and its limited use would not warrant the outlay of the money at the present time.

The operations of a bookbindery are varied and require accuracy in every detail to produce a first class job. The material that goes into a book cover is of special importance. As in the making of a garment, the thread and needle play an important part, so also in the making of a book. The following major operations are necessary for the production of a book: Folding, collating, sewing, pressing, gluing, rounding, backing, case making, stamping, casing in, inspecting, etc.

Modern machinery has done much to simplify each operation. It has also given greater speed in the performance of the work and in most cases more accuracy. Against this advancement must be figured the additional investment in a plant, the normal depreciation of the machinery, etc., in arriving at the final advantages of the present day system of doing things. We believe, however, that real progress has been made.

To the visitors of our plant, the operations of the bookbindery are probably equal in interest to any of the other operations in the institution. But with all this machinery at our command, there is yet a human side to it. There must be a well informed director of the work in the department. A certain amount of experienced help must be maintained. There is a certain amount of hand work outside of what can be done by machinery. This hand work is also interesting while in some cases it becomes rather monotonous and tiresome. In each operation there is room for advancement and greater efficiency.

One of the first essentials in the making of a book is accurate folding of the printed sheets, assuming of course that the printing has been done in a workmanlike manner. To meet this requirement, it was necessary to replace our folding machine which had been in use for about fifteen years and which had been damaged considerably by smoke and water during the fire which had occurred about four years ago. The cost of this new folder with an automatic continuous feeder attached was $4900.00 This equipment is not considered a part of the bindery as it is in a department of itself in our plant but while it is closely allied to the bindery, mention is made of it. It has proved to be a good investment for the line of work it will perform.

The next step in the process of manufacture is the gathering of the folded sheets according to the proper pages in the book. To facilitate this work a rotating gathering table was purchased at a cost of $225.00. The table has a round top which is rotated by an electric motor. The sheets are placed on it in piles in proper order and the sheets are picked off one by one as they pass each worker. The advantage of the machine is the saving of walking along a continuous row of piles in gathering the sheets.

Following this work a careful examination is made of each book so gathered to ascertain whether or not any pages have been skipped or duplicated. The work is now ready for the sewing machine.

The sewing machine is one of the more expensive parts of the bindery equipment, a new machine costing about $2350.00. In buying our equipment, we were very fortunate in finding a rebuilt machine in first class condition which was purchased for $1675.00. The operations of the machine are automatic except the feeding of the sheets. An experienced operator can take care of a considerable amount of work in a day's time.

Following the sewing the work is bundled by the compressed air bundler to flatten out the work for further operations. The next step is trimming. To produce accurate work, a heavy cutter is required. The style and size cutter that we needed was priced to us at $2750.00 in a new machine. We were again able to provide a rebuilt machine equipped to take care of our work for $1975.00. The operation of the cutting machine is considered the most dangerous operation in the work unless a suitable machine is installed. The general operations of the cutter are also automatic, clamping the work to be trimmed as the cutting knife is brought into action.

From the cutter the work passes on to the gluing table. Here the backs are glued and made ready for the next major operation—rounding and backing.

The rounding and backing operations have been combined into one by modern machinery. The machine that has been installed to take care of this work cost $4650.00 but its work is so efficient and advantageous in saving of time that its installation was considered imperative. Here the book receives the form in which it is delivered to you. The primitive method of using a clamp and hammer in forming the back and hinges of the leaves has been replaced with an outfit that is positive in delivery of uniform and satisfactory work. The book is now ready for the final touches in fastening the head bands and a tough woven fabric called "super," which finally holds the book and cover together.

While these operations have been in progress, another department has been preparing the covers, which are called cases in bookbinders' terms. The first requisites are the selecting of the material to be used for the outside and the weight of the boards to form the sides. In a stiff cloth cover the first operation is the cutting of the material. A large binder's shears has been provided for this purpose. After the material is ready, the next step will be the making of the cases.

A Section of the Bindery. Where the Covers are Made and Put on the Books

An electric glue pot attached to a gluing machine takes care of the first operation in this work. After the cloth sheets have been fed thru the rollers of this machine, the stiff boards are laid on the glued side by hand and the edges carefully folded over the boards with the necessary provision for the round back by attaching a strip of heavy paper for that purpose. The case is then put thru an ordinary clothes wringer to expel any air that may have lodged between the cloth and the heavy board, securely gluing the parts together.

After the cases are dried, the side stamp must be added. In many cases also a back stamp appears which must be attached in this operation. This work is taken care of by a hand stamping press. Gold leaf or imitation gold tissue are used for this work. The operations are simple and yet require great care and a certain amount of skill.

The cases and the books are now brought together and the final operation is called "casing-in." With a liberal amount of glue and hand work the book is finally ready for the press for the forming of the hinge in the cover and the drying of the glue, etc.

After being taken out of the press, the books are again inspected before they are sent to the stock room. Any damaged sheets are either replaced or repaired. If the defect is of such a nature as will not admit repairing, the book is destroyed. Our present capacity for turning out books of about the size of our hymnal is about 175 books per day when all the machinery is in operation and enough help is trained to take care of each operation necessary for production of the finished work.

THE MENNONITE IMMIGRATION MOVEMENT INTO CANADA

By E. S. Hallman

About two centuries ago, when there was an emigration movement of Mennonites from the Western part of Central Europe, into America, because of religious persecution, there was also a similar movement of Mennonites from the eastern part of Central Europe, into Southern Russia. Most of the latter located north of the Black Sea.

Like the various branches of Mennonites in America, and for similar reasons, they also are divided into various branches, mainly on the ground of baptism. Some baptize their applicants for church membership upon confession of faith by pouring, others by immersion.

During the last half century a movement of Mennonites from Southern Russia came into the United States, most of them to the state of Kansas, while some located in Manitoba, Canada, along the Red River Valley. Of recent years, however, a number of these Mennonites moved still farther west into the sections along the Pacific Coast, and northwest into the new provinces of Western Canada.

However, the last four years have seen the largest immigration movement of Mennonites which ever came to America. Canada and the United States, did not have the same "quota" laws governing foreign immigration; consequently the larger movement located in Western Canada, while a few remained in Ontario.

After the war the situation among our Mennonite brethren in Russia was such that the majority were homeless and helpless. Various appeals to us in America brought into existence organizations, the largest of which in Canada is known as the Canadian Mennonite Board of Colonization, with the main office at Rosthern, Sask., Canada. This Board of fourteen members at present, is represented by some of our Mennonite denominations, also by our Conferences. The office help consists of five, who attend to the clerical work, the duties of which have to do with both the Mennonite immigrants and the Transportation Company. This large movement is made possible by the generous act of the Canadian Pacific Railway and Steamship Company of Montreal, Canada, with one of its foreign offices at Moscow, Russia. They have consented to transport the larger number of our brethren from Russia into Canada on the credit plan. This means that, including this year, credit will be granted to the large amount of over one million dollars. Every year several hundred thousand dollars is being repaid by the immigrants on their transportation account and loans.

The Mennonite Immigration movement for the year 1927 is expected to increase about 400 per cent. During the last four years there were about 12,000 souls who came to Canada. The Transportation Company offers to transport from 12,000 to 20,000 persons during 1927 alone. Whether our Board will be able to find homes for this large number, or whether the Transportation Co., will be able to bring this number across, remains to be seen. It will be a tremendous task. Owing to the increased amount of work in our office, another organization came into existence, in assisting to procure farms in operation as well as farm lands for locating families who arrive. This organization is called the Canadian Mennonite Farm Settlement Board with its main office in the C. P. R. Building, Saskatoon, Sask., and also an office in Winnipeg.

While by far the larger number of our brethren who arrive are farmers, a large number have owned and operated factories and flour mills, some are mechanical engineers, while a few have been merchants, and some men and women were engaged as teachers and other professional work.

But the most important factor is the work of the church. The Christian family life seems very noticeable, and the young people and their parents seem to be a unit in Christian life activities. We truly appreciate the large number of faithful preachers who accompany the flock. They preach in the German language. Many attend English services and schools, and very soon have the command of the English language. We pray that God may very definitely lead and bless them and make them a blessing.

A CONGREGATION OF MENNONITES THAT HAS EXISTED FOR ONE HUNDRED YEARS

By L. J. Heatwole

Of the Weaver's congregation near Harrisonburg, in Rockingham County, Virginia, as a matter of course, not one survivor remains to tell us of just who, and how many were the first worshipers at this place one hundred years ago, or under what circumstances the first stone of Ebenezer was raised.

Records have been produced showing that in the year 1826 a house of worship — size eighteen by twenty-eight feet on the inside—was constructed here of oak and walnut logs, and that two years later, the deed was written naming Peter Burkholder, Frederick Rhodes, and Abraham Niswander as trustees and preachers for "The Society known as the Society of Mennonites."

By reason of a number of Burkholder families being located not far away, the place became first known as "The Burkholder Church," but since 1830, when Samuel Weaver located on the farm near-by and became its permanent sexton, it has been known as the Weaver Church.

On the last Sunday of the year 1926 a very appropriate and fitting sermon was preached by Bishop S. H. Rhodes by way of celebrating the centennial anniversary year in which the present site was chosen as a place of worship. Among the throng of people present were visitors who came from southern, western, and northern states. It was an occasion on which the speaker dwelt on how, by the grace of God, the growth of the congregation advanced from a few dozen families in the beginning to what is now the largest body of Mennonites in the state of Virginia. The fact was also strongly stressed that the work and influence that have gone out from the founders of this congregation, have accomplished wonderful things in the way of shaping and moulding for God and the Church the generation of men and women who worship here today.

Of the present membership that now survive Bro. Rhodes mentioned that there are yet two who are ninety years of age and past, six who are at or near the age of eighty years, and ten who are seventy-five years and past. To these now venerable patriarchs of the faith of our fathers of a hundred years ago, the speaker paid a most fitting tribute.

Others whose privilege it was to make addresses at this meeting referred to the modest apparel worn, and the simple forms of worship practiced in the early days. Touching memories of the Civil War period were recalled when the older place of worship was profaned by being converted into a commissary house for storing army supplies, while the grounds round about the place were occupied as a camping place for soldiers for indefinite periods of time. The old church building, that stood till the year 1881, bore on the surface of its long pulpit desk the raking scratches of the spurs of soldiers who had used it as a sleeping bunk.

Some of the old musty and dust-covered German song books and the German Bible, that had been hidden away and unused for generations under the pulpit desk, were brought to light and exhibited to the audience as the sad mementos of the mother tongue adhered to so tenaciously by our forefathers, and which, to the present generation, is practically a lost language.

The exhibiting of these old relics suggested a desire from some of the older members to once more have a German hymn sung in memory of the forefathers. A few days later at the time of the Old Folks' song service held at the same place, the congregation had the pleasure of either hearing or joining in a German hymn led by Bro. Chester K. Lehman of the Eastern Mennonite School.

WHEN GOD COMES INTO THE HEART

Bernard of Clairvaux once had such a revelation of his glorious Lord that he breathed forth a response from a full, full heart in words that for eight hundred and twenty-six years have formed one of the Bride's sweetest love songs of her Beloved—

Jesus, the very thought of Thee
With sweetness fills my breast;
But sweeter far Thy face to see,
And in Thy presence rest.

Nor voice can sing, nor heart can frame,
Nor can the memory find
A sweeter sound than Thy blest Name,
O Savior of mankind!

O Hope of every contrite heart!
O joy of all the meek!
To those who fall how kind Thou art!
How good to those who seek!

And those who find Thee, find a bliss
Nor tongue nor pen can show;
The love of Jesus, what it is,
None but His loved ones know.

Jesus! our only joy be Thou,
As Thou our prize wilt be;
Jesus! be Thou our glory now,
And through eternity.

How refreshing to the heart of the Lord was this expression of devotion when He preserved it so carefully from century to century!—Sel.

"HAVE FAITH IN GOD"

Faith rests on God's eternal Truth,
And comes from God alone,
The Source, the Fountain, and the Spring,
His Word that makes Him known.
Faith justifies the soul complete,
And sets the heart at rest,
Faith knows the Christ—the Living God—
And is thus truly blest.

It works by love to God and man,
And breathes Heaven's atmosphere,
It loves God's Word, obeys His laws,
Reveres all He holds dear.
It purifies the heart and gives
An object to adore,
Dethrones false gods, holds firm the True,
It gives a boundless store.

It overcomes the world, so false,
With its delusive lies,
And with its golden links of light,
Leads upward to the skies.
God honors Faith—Faith honors God,
And with a calm repose,
Rests on His own eternal Word,
No change it ever knows.

Faith sees the Christ of God above,
Once here the lowly One,
Is occupied with Him and finds
Compared with Him there's none.
Faith rests on Him, finds all it needs,
For all life's little span;
Faith yields to sight, our eyes shall meet,
We'll see yon lovely Man.

—Thomas Somerville.

INVESTMENT and SERVICE

The careful investor is satisfied with a fair margin of profit. His greatest interest lies in the safety of his investment. If such an investment is coupled with an avenue of special service the returns are twofold. The Mennonite Publication Board is offering such an investment. In the erection of the new building accommodating the plant of the Mennonite Publishing House certain liabilities were assumed. The investment has been a blessing to the cause and Church. You are invited to share in it.

ANNUITIES

This form of donation is appealing to many of our people. A certain rate of interest is paid on the donation as long as the donor lives. After death the interest is discontinued and the principal is in the hands of the institution. It provides a safe investment. The interest is paid every six months. No state or inheritance tax can be collected from it. The donor becomes his own administrator of his estate.

The Gospel Herald and Christian Monitor Annuities are being continued. $30.00 pays for the Gospel Herald for a life time. $20.00 pays for the Christian Monitor.

DONATIONS

Further development of the work will be greatly enhanced by the assistance that is given in the form of donations. The possibilities for the spread of Gospel Truths are increasing as the years go by and the printing industry is developed. Millions of pages of printed matter are being circulated thru our present equipment. The possibility of increasing this circulation is ever before us. If you cannot make your donation now, a bequest in your will can easily be arranged. An opportunity for real service in the cause of the Master is open to those who have financial means at their command.

LOANS

Until the present liabilities are cancelled by either of the above forms or through the profits of the work of the Institution the loan department will be open to our people. While the original loans were sufficient to cover all indebtedness, there are constant changes through the calling of these loans made to the House. As these calls are satisfied, they are replaced with other loans. We thus have a sort of banking arrangement. Money is received in any amount not less than $100.00. Thirty days notice is required to withdraw it. The interest is paid annually. Notes are written for one year and automatically renew as the interest is paid.

THE NEW CHURCH HYMNAL

Will be Ready June 1, 1927

This announcement is made subject to delays beyond our control. This should not be construed to mean that we will be able to make delivery on all orders at that time. The work will only have commenced but all orders will be filled in the order they have been received.

At the Mennonite General Conference held August 29, 30, 1917, recommendations were adopted authorizing the gathering of material for a book of this kind. At the next General Conference held two years later the following resolution was adopted: "Resolved, that we recommend that the Music Committee with the Publishing Committee take steps in the compiling of a hymn book of Church standard." The work was taken up by the Music Committee, and submitted to the Publishing Committee just previous to the General Conference held at Eureka, Ill., August 26-28, 1925. This report together with the recommendations given by the Publishing Committee were presented to the Conference and instructions were given to complete the work, and for the publishing of the book.

Much time has been given to the gathering of the material used. It has been estimated that more than 4,000 hymns and songs were examined with care, and many more were looked over which were not taken under special advisement. The final result is a collection of 657 selections used in the following general groups: hymns of worship and praise; prayer; the Word of God; Christian doctrines; Christian ordinances; the Church; Christian experiences; edification and encouragement; Christian activity; special occasions, etc.

All the words will appear with the music on the staff. A bold face-style of notes and a clear, large face type for the words have been used. It will be printed on a durable white paper with the proper finish and weight for a serviceable book. It will be printed in both shaped and round notes. Shaped notes will be furnished unless otherwise specified. The German appendix used in the old hymnal will be supplied in the shaped note edition without additional charge to those who specify it. The following bindings will be offered at the prices given:

| Stiff Cloth Binding | | Stiff Keratol Binding | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Each, postpaid | $ 1.35 | Each, Postpaid | $ 1.65 |
| Dozen copies, prepaid | 15.00 | Dozen copies, prepaid | 18.00 |
| 100 copies, not prepaid | 100.00 | 100 copies, not prepaid | 125.00 |

50 books will be supplied at the 100 rate, not prepaid.

The Keratol binding is an imitation leather. It has a cloth base with a composition finish and resembles leather in appearance. The wearing qualities are claimed to be better than the usual grade of leather used for books of this kind.

Orders will be booked to be filled as entered if cash accompanies the order. Orders without remittances will be entered in a special list to be filled immediately following the cash orders received before the publication date.

Ready Scriptural Reasons

By Geo. R. Brunk

This book turns the Gospel light upon many questions which are asked by earnest inquirers after Gospel truth. It gives Scriptural reasons for Christian conduct and the maintaining of the principles and doctrines as believed and practised by the Mennonite Church. Arranged in question and answer form.

The subjects considered are entirely separate from each other, yet there is a logical connection between them which renders the book a continuous story. The first chapter, "Becoming a Christian," is fittingly linked up with the last, "Heaven," the goal of every Christian.

The book is bound in attractive cloth cover. It contains 216 pages. Size, 5½ x 7½ inches ..... $1.25

Brief Outlines in Bible Study

By S. C. Yoder. This volume contains a collection of outlines which the author has used in his work in the Evangelistic Field, Bible Conferences, and Short Bible Courses in colleges and are now gathered into this form for the purpose of permanency and convenience in study. The book contains twenty-two lessons on the "Doctrines of the Bible;" twenty-one lessons on the "Outline of the Book of Acts;" twenty lessons on the "Studies in the Book of Joshua." It is convenienlty interleaved with blank pages for notes. 228 pages. Cloth Binding, $1.00.

Gospel Mirror, The

By Daniel Kauffman. A companion volume to "A Talk with Church Members" by the same author. The following subjects are treated: Salvation, The Holy Life, Home Life, Going Out into Society, Business Precepts, and Christian Service. 112 pages. Size 5¼ x 7½ inches. Paper Cover, 35 cents. Cloth binding, 60 cents.

Worldly Conformity in Dress

By John Horsch. The historical position of the Mennonite Church upon this teaching is reviewed and the theory, upheld by some of the present time, that any church regulation with regard to dress is a mere commandment of men is strongly refuted. The relation of dress to immorality and Christian piety in general is plainly shown. Size 5½ x 7½. 48 pages. Art Paper Cover, 15 cents.

Overcoming Handicaps

Or the Ministry of Suffering. A collection of four interesting sketches of individuals who were seriously handicapped by afflictions of the body, but manifested such an excellent spirit that God greatly blessed their lives, making their afflictions a real help in glorifying Him. A chapter devoted to each of the characters, viz., Wm. McPherson, Daniel Rose, Lizzie Johnson, and John S. Wenger. Size 4½x6 inches, 48 pages. Paper Cover, 10 cents. One dozen copies, $1.00.
